

How to Choose a Church in College

1. Ask Around

- Ask friends, on campus ministries, your RA, Google

2. Do Your Research

- Look at doctrinal statements on church websites
 - If there's a denomination you don't know but it's being recommended to you, go study it.
 - This is the moment where your faith can really become your own.

3. Decide Right Now That You're Going to Church Every Sunday

- If you wait to see how you feel that morning, or you're planning your schedule based on other people, you'll never go. Choose to do it now.

4. Try Multiple Churches

- Don't feel like you have to stick at the first church you try
- You can go to as many as you want
- Go multiple times
- You can always go back somewhere

5. Meet People Who Go There and Ask Good Questions

- “Hey I’m so and so and I’m looking for a church home. What was it about this church that made you go here? What was finding community like for you here? Do you serve here?”

6. Pray About It

7. Choose One Eventually, and Be All in There.

- Join the college group
- Become a member
- Serve
